Onalaska Physician Treats Injured at Home of Henry Richmond Near Scene of Mishap

Roy Stuart, aged 22, barber, Sparta, Wis., has been unconscious nineteen hours, the result of injuries sustained when an auto in which he and four other Sparta men, bound from there from La Crosse, went over an embankment on the North Salem road at 8 o'clock last night, burying Stuart beneath the wreckage.

The machine, which was driven by Edward Reickert, Sparta, attempted to avoid a collision with a rig occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tripp, who reside near the Town of Campbell school house. The accident occurred near the school.

Stuart has precussion of the brain and will not live, say physicians.

Henry Middleman, another occupant of the car, suffered a dislocated hip. Others in the car were Louis Anderson and Oscar Doxrub. They were uninjured.

After turning over four times in its flight down the embankment the kerosene lights ignited the gasoline. The machine was destroyed.

Stuart was pulled from under the wreckage by Mr. and Mrs. Tripp and the other occupants of the car and carried to the home of Henry Richmond, nearby, where Dr. Lester, of Onalaska, administered the first aid to the injured.

All of the autoists have been taken to Sparta.

WALKS OFF CAR SERIOUSLY HURT

Margaret Yeho, La Crescent, Attempts to Leave Moving Vehicle Sunday Afternoon

Jumping from a swiftly moving street car on South Fourth street yesterday afternoon, Miss Margaret Yeho, aged 25, La Crescent, Minn., suffered severe injury to the back of her head and was rendered unconscious for an hour.

Ringing the bell for the car to stop at the corner of Fourth and Jay streets, the car did not stop at the corner. Miss Yeho ran to the platform and stepped off. She lost her balance and was thrown to the street.

W. L. Tetley, undertaker at 326 South Fourth street, was sitting in the front room of his establishment when the accident occurred. He and persons on the street, who witnessed it, ran to the assistance of the young woman.

She was carried into the undertaking rooms, and Dr. F. C. Suiter called. He found that the cut was not of a serious nature. Miss Yeho returned to her home last night.

DOUBLE FIRE TUG SHIFT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 23.—The double shift on the four city fire tugs was established today in order with an order of the federal government.

WEATHER

Temperatures yesterday:
High, 34.
Low, 10.
Precipitation, 0.

Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Fair and somewhat warmer tonight and Tuesday.

For Wisconsin: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; rising temperature; southerly winds, increasing.

For Minnesota: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight and east portion Tuesday.

Fair weather prevails in all sections this morning and with but litle cloudiness. The pressure is high over the central districts and the temperature is below the seasonal normal from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic coast. An area of low pressure is moving over the Canadian northwest and the temperature is generally above normal throughout the west and northwest. A second high covers the Pacific states and plateau region.

The weather will be fair in this section tonight and Tuesday with somewhat higher temperature.

GERMAN ACTIVITY ON BELGIAN COAST CAUSES BRITISH UNEASINESS

GERMANS REMOVE TOWN POPULATION AND PLANT GUNS

Reports Also Indicate that Warships Are About to Move from Emden

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Extreme activity of the Germans along the Belgian coast as well as reports indicating that warships are about to move from Emden was causing the greatest uneasiness here today.

The greatest mystery surrounded the movement along the coast. Military experts here express the belief that this activiey in Belgium may be a part of a plan for the establishment of bases for a daring raid upon London or the forerunner of a movement to engage the allied fleet of the coast and under this cover endeavor to transport troops by sea to the French coast.

The entire population of the Belgian coast towns of Zee Brugge and Knocke has been transferred to Brugges by the Germans. The people were not permitted to move into Holland. Bruges is now said to be garrisoned largely by slightly wounded sfoldiers, the others having been moved toward the front.

Reports have been received that shix submarines are being put together on the docks at Zee Brugge. The inhabitants of St. Nicholas, a city of 40,000, between Antwerp and Ghent, have been ordered to leave immediately. St. Nicholas is an important railroad junction. The people of the town were ordered to move to Antwerp, where they were told unoccupied houses originally abandoned by Belgians who fled the city would be turned over to them.

FUNSTON'S FORCE ON BOARD SHIP TO LEAVE MEXICO

Transports Ready to Sail at Noon Commander Wires to Washington

FUGITIVES BEG TRANSPORTATION

Fearful of Reprisals They Plead With Funston for Passage to United States

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 23.—With transports steamed up and ready to sail, the American soldiers who have occupied Vera Cruz marched from their positions today and embarked for home.

A mile outside the city, General Aguilar Jara was waiting with 8,000 disciplined constitutionalists. He will enter Vera Cruz as soon as the last American soldier is out. As the American outposts in the sand hills outside the city were evacuated during the morning, constitutionalists moved forward and tok up the positions.

The evacuation of the city by the Americans proceeded quietly. Great crowds lined the streets, but perfect order was observed. All saloons are closed.

General Funston's "expeditionary force is ready to sail for the United States. Unless there is some extraordinary emergency all the transports will be loaded and ready to sail for home by tonight. The embarkation was in full swing today. Forces worked all day yesterday putting army supplies aboard the ships.

Hundreds of fugitives, fearful of reprisals by any one of the various Mexican factions, hurried in at the last moment today pleading to be given passage out of the country. Such accommodations as are available on transports have all been taken. Many Mexicans will have to be left behind. Those who straggled in from Mexico City reported that the capital had recovered somewhat from its wild terror at the approach of Villa's army, although thousands were still fleeing.

There were eight big army transports and five ships of war swinging at anchor off Vera Cruz and Tampico today. The latter will remain in Mexican waters indefinitely with their complement of marines, according to present plans.

Ready to Sail

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—General Funston cabled the war department today that all his troops would be aboard transports ready to sail from Vera Cruz at noon, for Galveston.

Marines numbering about two thousand will be taken aboard separate transports for Philadelphia.

No decision as to the distribution of troops after they return to the United States has yet been reached, Secretary of War Garrison said. They will be quartered temporarily at Texas City.

Gen. Funston cabled also that he was bringing with him about $1,000,000 in customs receipts collected during the American occupation. This will be placed on deposit in some bank in the United States until the United States reognizes a new government in Mexico.

To Shift Commanders

The return of Gen. Funston will cause a shift of departmental commanders in the army, Secretary Garrison said today. The plan is to bring Gen. Bliss, commander of the border troops, to Washington to act as an assistant chief of staff in which capacity he could prepare himself to succeed Gen. Hugh Scott, the present chief of staff. Funston may take command of the central department while Gen. Bell temporarily succeeds Gen. Bliss.

La Crosse Ships Cotton

La Crosse is sending her share of cotton to the suffering Belgians. At noon today Asst. Postmaster C. C. Looney said a large number of packages had been placed in the local postoffice for shipment via parcel post.

"Originally we had orders not to accept the cotton shipments," said Looney. "We have a later ruling from the postmaster general to the effect that the packages must be accepted, that there will be no interference with the United States mails."

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—At one o'clock this afternoon there were 7,500 pounds of medicated cotton in the foreign mails department at Morton and West streets, awaiting shipments to the hospitals of Vienna. The cotton came from Mr. Everybody, Anywhere, U. S. A., and was sent in response to the suggestion of William G. Shepherd, United Press correspondent in Austria, that the people of this country should show real Christmas spirit by sending much needed dressing for the wounded.

The packages are of all shapes and sizes, from tiny one-ounce bundles to the entire mail sacks full that they were sent through the St. Paul Daily News.

The address on each package was "For The Wounded, Vienna." The 300 sacks already packed contain cotton only from middle western and western states. There are several contributions from Wisconsin, Kansas and Missouri.

WILL KEEP U. S. BATTLESHIPS IN TURKISH WATERS

Captain's Orders are Modified so that They May Act if Necessity Arises

SECRETARY DENIES HOSTILE INTENT

Instruction Merely Put into Effect Regulations of Navy Says Daniels

TURKEY EXPLAINS SMYRNA AFFAIR

Officially Disavows Action of Fort Which Fired at Launch of U. S. S. Tennessee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The American warships North Carolina and Tennessee will remain in Turkish waters indefinitely. Reports that they are to be recalled as soon as the Smyrna incident has been officially disavowed were today denied at the navy department. Secretary Daniels took the position that this act was not an aggressive one.

Modify Orders

In officially confirming that the orders to Captains Decker and Oman that they must not act on their own initiative, have been modified so that they may, should grave necessity arise, "protect American citizens as the situation may warrant," the secretary today took the position that he had not reversed himself. He insisted that the original orders to the commanders of the warships that they must not initiate any hostile move without specific orders was only meant to be temporary, until he could be assured that the state department and Ambassador Morgenthau were working in complete sympathy.

The new orders simply put into effect the naval regulations. The latter give commanders of American warships discretionary powers when they cannot communicate directly with the department, to act "for the protection of American interests," even to the extent of using their batteries or landing marines. It was under his construction of these powers that Rear Admiral Mayo precipitated the Tampico incident which brought the American battle fleet into Mexican waters.

UNITED STATES TO BE CONSTRUCTIVE POWER IN WORLD

Our Duty Not to Exploit Misfortune of Europe Declares Esch in Address Sunday

FOLLY OF ARMS NATIONS' LESSON

Old World Conflict Proves Futility of Armament as Means of Insuring Universal Peace

EXTRAVAGANCE AND VICE KILLED

Gay Paree Is Sad; London Is in Darkness and Petrograd and Berlin in Mourning

That in America's relation to the war duty and opportunity are synonymous is the opinion which Hon. John J. Esch expressed in an address at Y. M. C. A. auditorium Sunday afternoon. The congressman contemptuously rejected the position of American opportunists who openly advocate the exploitation of Europe's misfortunes for the gain of the hour, pointing rather to the higher field of achievement in which an unselfish neutrality may be followed by decisive influence in the reorganization of society and the readjustment of the nations.

That there will be new factors; new motives, interpretations from new angles; in truth, a new foundation for civilization, Mr. Esch believes. If, as a nation, the United States shall rise to unselfish leadership and shall become the constructive influence in weaving the fabric of a warless civilization, Uncle Sam will become the exalted of the nations.

And to our country, thus exalted, will come all the good things of happiness and success which always go with pre-eminence. The prosperity that follows leadership and clings to greatness is substantial and lasting; the prosperity of selfish timeliness and expedience, is no more enduring than its structure of "tricks of trade."

Folly of Arms

That the European conflict is proving the futility of armament as a means of insuring universal peace, was another opinion expressed by Mr. Esch.

This statement from the congressman who has been one of the strongest advocates of fortifications

SIX DAYS LEFT TO COMPLETE CARGO OF FLOUR FOR BELGIUM

Six days remain in which to make up the shipment of flour from La Crosse to add to the cargo of the Northwestern Miller, which will sail early in December from Philadelphia, with life-giving provision for the thousands of children, women and old men starving in Belgium as a result of the war's devastaion. Special efforts are to be made during the wind-up of the campaign, whichare expected to add several hundred dollars to the fund which will be turned into flour.

Help from all quarters continue to flow in. Every mail brings contributions to the fund, and societies of all sorts are represented as well as individuals. One of the largest contributions received today came from the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday at which Congressman John J. Esch spoke upon the war in its relation to the United States. Fifteen sacks of flour were contributed by the men who attended. Church societies, also, have come actively to the front, and subscriptions from them are added every day.

The boy scouts in the city have also been active. As a result of a campaign of paper selling a good sized fund was turned over to the flour fund today by Troop No. 1 of this city, and other patrols are developing similar plans.

Excellent response, surpassing expectations, has come from the communities about La Crosse, which have been touched by the Belgian need. A list of cities and towns from which individuals and organizations have sent their donations to the Belgian flour fund includes the following:

DeSoto, Wis.; Bangor, Wis.; Hokah, Minn.; Viroqua, Wis.; Coon Valley, Wis.; West Salem, Wis.; Sparta, Wis.; Galesville, Wis.; Stoddard, Wis.; Lynxville, Wis.; Merrilan, Wis.; La Farge, Wis.; Chaseburg, Wis.; Esaphen, Wis.; Westby, Wis.; Preston, Minn.; New Albin, Iowa; Holmen, Wis.; Whitehall, Wis., Canton, Minn.; Seaforth, Canada; Tomah, Wis.

Additional information was received today which emphasizes the need of the Belgians. Between three and five million people, according to figures of American philanthropists in Brussels, are destitute, dependent upon the charity of Americans for means to sustain life. The country people are flocking into the cities of Belgium from the denuded country-side at the rate of 25,000 a day, and every day thus adds to the problems confronting the charitable organizations in the cities.

GUTIERREZ' BROTHER DESERTS

New Provisional President Repudiated by Brother In Favor of Carranza

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 23.—With 102 artillery pieces, Gen. Felipe Angeles, principal lieutenant of Gen. Francisco Villa, is hammering at the gates of Guadalajara, second city in importance in the republic of Mexico. He has 15,000 troops engaged.

Angeles sent a dispatch today to his chief that the assault had opened and Villa in turn instructed him to level the city if necessary to take it. Twenty thousand Carranzista soldiers commanded by Gen. Miguel Dieguez defend Guadalajara, which is the capital of the state of Jalisco. Dieguez has brought up large reinforcements from the west.

The vanguard of Gen. Villa's army which is marching against Mexico City, has halted at Cazadero, fifty miles from Tula, where Villa expects resistance. Several miles of railroad track in that vicinity have been torn up. Repair work will require at least a week and Villa intends to await the reconstruction of the line before moving further south.

Early today Villa was at Celaya, an important city in Cuanajuato state. He will proceed this afternoon to Queretaro, which is now the concentration camp of the army Vila will throw against the Carranza forces of the east.

Gen. Luis Gutierrez, brother of the new provisional president, has repudiated his brother and declared his allegiance to Gen. Carranza. He commands 6,000 troops at Saltillo. The provisional president, has gone to Venegas, San Luis Potosi state, in an effort to arrange a conference and induce his brother to support the convention government.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE RE-OPENS WITHOUT RIPPLE

Heavy Selling Movement Predicted Fails to Materialize and Business is About as Usual

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The Chicago Stock exchange, the first in one of the foremost cities of the world to resume trading since the opening of the European war, reopened today. Predictions of a heavy selling movement failed to materialize and business went along about as usual.

A committee from the stock exchange had fixed a minimum price at which stocks could be traded in. This minimum was the closing price on July 30, less any dividends that may have been declared since the closing.

The first transaction was the sale of ten shares of St. Paul at 82¾. The closing price on the New York Stock exchange July 30 was 85¼, but since that time a 2½ per cent dividend has been declared.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN PROGRESS IN POLISH CAMPAIGN

Three Big Battles Reported in Russian Poland, East Prussia and Galicia

PETROGRAD REPORTS FALL OF CITY

Declared that Gumbinnen, Twenty Miles Inside German Border, Has Been Taken

SAY VON HINDENBERG IS CHECKED

Twelve Thousand Prisoners Captured Near Kutnow According to Russians

BERLIN, Via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Nov. 23.—There is every confidence that the result of the battles now raging in Poland will prove a decisive victory for the Germans and Austrians, and settle the fate of the Russian campaign. This was the statement officially authorized here today.

Reports from Vienna say the Germans and Austrians are continuing their attacks successfully Austria is again meeting resistance in Servia, but a strong detachment of Austrian troops has crossed the Kolubara.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 23.—German cavalry patrols have penetrated to within thirty miles of Warsaw, the capital of Poland.

Heavy fighting is still in progress today between Lowicz and Swierniewice, where the Russian force is opposing the main line of advance of the army of General Von Hindenberg. Reports have been received of the destruction of a German cavalry patrol ten miles in advance of the main battle line. The Germans were cut off by cossacks and those not killed or wounded were made prisoners.

Capture Gumbinnen

The success of the campaign in Prussia is claimed by reports of the capture of Gumbinnen, 20 miles inside the German frfontier and about 70 miles from Koenigsberg. The fighting there is said to have lasted for five days marked by asaults upon the German trenches. A charge by cossacks is declared to have finally routed the Germans, who retreated toward Insterburg.

It is now only a question of how many Germans succeeded in escaping it is declared here today, in reports of fresh and important successes gained by the Russians between the Vistula and Warthe rivers.

Check Odvance Upon Warsaw

The battle which has been raging in contesting the German advance upon Warsaw has resulted in the forward movement being checked, it is asserted. The German losses are said to be enormous. At Kutno, 25 miles west of Lowicz, 12,000 prisoners were taken.

Another terrible battle is raging near Cracow.

The position of the Russian troops continues satisfactory, it was officially stated today. Officical announcements are now largely non-committal, however, as to the operations and it is accepted that when the result of the great batle now being waged is known it will be of decisive importance.

Claim Success in Galicia

In East Prussia conditions are much more favorable for Russian success than in the first campaign into this German territory, it is stated here. The swamps and marches which caused so much trouble in the first invasion are now frozen, and bitter fighting is in progress in that district.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

GARDENS AND THE GIRL

BY HARMONY WELLER

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The gardens in the little suburban village that nestled at the foot of the Childtern Hills were beginning to show the lack of care. The war had robbed those tiny cottages and left them stripped of masculine hands. Wives and mothers and sisters who were left behind to grieve and toil had no time for gardening when there were children to care for and homes to keep tidy against the day when the soldiers would once again be welcomed back.

Silent and pitiful evidence of the war's greedy clutch lay in the fast drooping gardens of the tiny homes. Flowers at the front gate made brave attempts to rear their heads above the tangle of weeds; a vine struggled and fell for lack of support, and behind the house, vegetables, often a needed asset to the meager allowance, died for lack of care. Such tiny, tiny gardens they were. It seemed as if an hour could have been squeezed from the crowded day in order that they might live. But the wives of those brave soldiers were already burdened and that hour could not be found.

However, there was one pair of masculine hands in the village that might not fire shots at the enemy because his physical body had been found far too weak to stand the strenuous life of the battlefield. George Bassington grieved sorely that he was unfit to go with his fellow men to fight the great fight, but he realized there must be some way in which he could be of service to those left behind.

"I could take care of those gardens," he pondered as he walked through Laurel lane and witnessed the condition of growing things. "Perhaps it will help the struggling women as much as the outdoor work will benefit my own body."

He smiled wrathfully at his own weakness, but when bravely from one door to the other asking if he might attend the gardens of the soldier husbands who had gone to war.

"I am absolutely idle," had been his stock phrase of householders. "It will be a favor to me if you let me care for your flowers and vegetables."

At the end of two weeks George Bassington had done wonders with six small gardens. Flowers again raised joyful heads, vines clambered over gate posts and vegetables continued to add table necessities to the six tables. Bassington felt proud of his work and became a great favorite with the wives and mothers whom his work was helping. He had his tea first with one and then with the next until they began to feel a trifle jealous if he was seen longer in one garden than in the other. It was with difficulty that he kept one bit of property from overstepping another in beauty.

There was one house of Laurel lane that Bassington took infinite care over and that one was the home of James Holiday. Bassington realized that because of the inmate he found himself lured there in spite of himself. He supposed the fair woman within to be the wife of Holiday because she tended Holiday's two tiny children and seemed over busy with household cares. So busy was she that Bassington had never, during his short stay in the garden, had more than a word or two of conversation with her.

"I can hardly ask her if she is Holiday's wife," laughed the temporary gardener to himself, "much as my curiosity may hamper me. Nor do I feel justified in questioning my neighbors." However much he disliked the thought of her being the wife of any man, he was forced to the conclusion that she was the wife of Holiday and the mother of his children. In consequence Bassington made his conversation as short as possible with the little lady, and she in turn did not offer a more lengthy chat than was absolutely necessary. It really seemed as if she made a point of being strictly civil and no more to him.

As weeks slipped past Bassington began to regain the health that had escaped him. The recruiting offices would not turn him back again, he felt, and with that thought in view he once again went into town in order to offer himself for active service.

This time he was not sent away from his medical examination with drooping head. Instead Bassington stood erect and there was a sparkle of triumph in his eyes as if he were even then marching to meet the enemy. He had been accepted for active service and he was to join his old regiment and leave for the front with them.

It was with joyful heart that he approached the little cottages in Laurel lane and told each of his now excellent friends of his success. It was going to be a trifle difficult to tell Jim Holiday's wife, and Bassington left her until the last. He did not know why it was difficult to tell her, but it was, and as he dropped the shining brass knocker of her door he braced himself as if for the first volley of shot from the enemy.

Once inside the trim little house Bassington looked long and earnestly at the fair girl who seemed ever to elude his level glance.

"I am going to the front," he said, in his straightforward manner, "and I wanted to tell you that I have arranged for another man to care for the gardens. I am off on Saturday."

"Oh!" gasked the girl, "then you are not a shirker! I have been thinking you were a coward not to enlist when all our brave brothers and husbands have gone to fight for us." Her eyes sparkled even as Bassington's had when he left the physician's office with the stamp of health marking him.

A deep flush spread even up to his temples at the girl's words.

"I am sorry you thought me a shirker, Mrs. Holiday," was all he said. It was not an Englishman's way to gain sympathy on the plea of ill health.

The quick apology in Jean Holiday's eyes was mingled with amused surprise.

"But I am not Mrs. Holiday," she told him, "I am Jim's sister." She blushed hotly at the sudden joy in Bassington's gaze. Jean continued swiftly to cover her confusion. "Mrs. Holiday has gone down to be near Jim as long as possible before he goes to the front. He's in camp now."

"Not anybody's wife?" questioned Bassington, and realized that he would change that situation when he returned from the war. "I am sorry you though me a shirker," he said, "and that I thought you a wife and mother. Otherwise we might have spent many wonderful hours here in the shadow of the Chiltern Hills—just you and I."

"The hills will always be here," Jean said with dainty frankness, because she had loved Bassington in spite of herself, "I, too, expect to be here—when you return."

"May that day be soon," Bassington said, and took both of her proffered hands in a warm clasp and raised them in turn to his lips. "Until that day," he added softly.

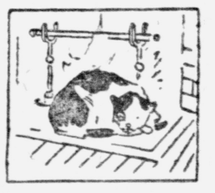
Daddy's Bedtime Story — Mimi Meow's Adventures In the War.



She Curled Up For a Little Nap Before Tea.

"MIMI MEOW sat before the fire in the library and thoughtfully yawned; then she licked her chops and curled up for a little nap before tea." Daddy was beginning the evening story.

"But Mimi Meow was not to be left undisturbed. Chow Chow, the tiny doggie, came trotting in and sat down beside her for a friendly chat.

"'Tell me all about how you and Mistress Alice got away from Paris, will you, Mimi Meow?' asked Chow Chow.

"Mimi Meow blinked her eyes sleepily and looked very important. 'Why, I've told the story before. You must find it interesting.'

"'Yes, I do. I'm only very sorry that I couldn't have been with you and Mistress Alice,' said Chow Chow.

"'Well, it was a terrible experience, I'll admit,' said Mimi Meow. 'Why, for two days I couldn't get my milk, and when I did get it mistress was so worried that she didn't warm it for me.

"'And my ribbons were a sight. You know, I always have such beautiful ones, and they got soiled and bedraggled, and half the time they wouldn't be kept tied and'—

"'Oh, tell me about the way you and Mistress Alice got to London from Paris!' begged Chow Chow.

"'Well, of course, we were almost obliged to go, you know,' continued Mimi Meow, 'so Mistress Alice put me in a basket which she bought, and then we went to the station, where we had to wait ever and ever so long for a train—a half an hour, I should say. Then we went into a parlor car coach and rode very comfortably to Calais.

"'It was taking the boat at Calais to cross the English channel that upset me worse than anything that happened in the war zone. It's terribly choppy and rough, you see, and I was so sick.

"'Then, you know, when we got to Dover from Calais they were not going to let me into England because they thought I was a doggie. Now, what do you think of that?'

"'I think that it is just as well I was not with Mistress Alice in Paris,' replied Chow Chow. 'And you certainly did have a terrible time in the war zone!'

"'Yes, I did,' admitted Mimi Meow.

"'It seems fine to lie here perfectly safe and comfy after my thrilling experiences. I certainly hope I shall never be so unfortunate as to be obliged to drink cold milk and wear bedraggled ribbons again. Now, you must keep quiet, Chow Chow, because I want to take "forty winks" before tea.'".

MOLZAHN-FISCHER

Miss Theressa Fischer announces the marriage of her sister, Anna Katherine, to Walter E. Molzahn of Milwaukee. The wedding took place November 10 at St. Leo's cathedral in Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. Molzahn will reside at 2216 Clark street, Milwaukee.

Lion Always Foe of Man.

The lion is an implacable foe of man and has been as far back as history records. Born in captivity, never having known freedom, trained for years by one man and apparently either fearing or admiring his trainer, a lion may turn on his trainer at any time and kill him as cruelly as he does in the jungle.

GREAT MASS OF PROOF

Reports of 30,000 Cases of Kidney Trouble, Some of Them La Crosse Cases

Each of some 6,000 newspapers of the United States is publishing from week to week, names of people in its particular neighborhood, who have used and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder troubles and urinary disorders. This mass of proof includes over 30,000 recommendations. La Crosse is no exception. Here is one of the La Crosse cases:

E. Mabie, 1114 Cameron Ave., La Crosse, says: "For many years I have been troubled by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I have found that an occasional box of Doan's Kidney Pills will regulate the action of my kidneys and keep them in good shape. I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago and I am glad to confirm my former statement. I know from experience that Doan's Kidney Pills are a valuable kidney medicine."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Mabie had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WEST SALEM, WIS.

Hamilton street was opened for traffic the first of the week.

Mrs. John Haag of DeSoto, Wis., is a guest at the home of her brother, Fred Pfaff.

Master Frances Oakes is attending school at Sparta at present.

John Nelson passed away at the Lutheran hospital at La Crosse and was brought to his home here on Wednesday.

Mrs. Frank Rommel of Bangor spent Wednesday here.

Mrs. Frank McClintock returned the first of the week from a visit at Augusta and Black River Falls.

A party made up of Rev. S. L. McKee, W. L. Bradley, Carl Labus, Grant McClintock, Chas. Boetzel and Fred Nuttleman left the first of the week for Stanley, where they will spent a couple of weeks hunting deer. A little later in the week Frank Coburn, Lyon Gullickson, W. L. McEldowney, Roy Gilfillan and Dr. G. F. Wakefield left for Camp Salem, where they will hunt deer.

Mrs. Mary Green of Onalaska who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. Florence Samuels and friends here for some time, returned to her home Tuesday.

The S. O. B. club will meet with Miss Hulda Sander Saturday, Nov. 21. Miss Russie Gullickson will assist Miss Sander.

Ed McGee of Ontario, Wis., and son of Woodstock, Ill., were guests of L. P. Gilfillan the first of the week.

Mrs. Wendell McEldowney and son are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Elsen and family at Bangor.

Mr. Freeman Hill and two sons of Barron, Wis., are guests at the home of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Hill, and sister, Mrs. Martin McEldowney.

S. W. Brown spent Thursday at Wilton transacting business.

First Field Artillery.

The first field artillery was devised by Gustavus Adolphus. His beaten copper guns, wrapped in leather, could be fired faster than a man could fire a musket. It was due to the proficiency of his artillery, more than any other reason, that he was able to carry on the Thirty Years war.

FREIGHT INCREASE DEBATE SUBJECT

The annual intersociety debate between the Lincoln-Douglas and the Wendell-Philipps debating societies will be held in the near future, although the date has not yet been decided. The question to be discussed will be: "Resolved, That the five per cent increase in freight rates demanded by the railroads, is justifiable." In the years past this annual debate has always been hot and fiery, as the rivalry between the two clubs is strong. Both societies have efficient orators. A large banner, now in possession of the Lincoln Douglas, will be up as a trophy for the winning side. Although defeated in the last debate, the Wendell-Phillipps is determined to win the present fight.

CAUSED BY OVEREATING

Deficient gastric secretion, meaning a lack of the fluids necessary for digestion, is a prevalent condition. You may have it now and not know it because you are able to get along without actual discomfort even with your enfeebled digestion.

But if you overeat—then you are in trouble. You have indigestion because you have given your weakened stomach too much to do. The deficient gastric secretion was what doctors call the predisposing cause, the overeating was the exciting cause. It is easy not to repeat the overeating but the predisposing cause must be corrected if you are to be well.

The secretions that digest the food come from glands that are nourished directly by the blood. When these secretions are insufficient the only way to restore their healthful condition is by building up the blood. This can be done by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the non-alcoholic tonic that assists nature in keeping the body in health. Proper attention to diet and the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be tried in cases of disordered digestion because it is the simple and natural way to correct the trouble.

Send today for a copy of our free diet book "What to Eat and How to Eat." Address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

RED CROSS SEALS GOOD INVESTMENT

Within a day or two the letters you receive will begin to be decorated with Red Cross Christmas seals. Shortly after Thanksgiving Lay the annual campaign, which in Wisconsin, at least, supplies practically all the sinews of war for the campaign against tuberculosis, will be taken up through the school children and other agencies.

The Red Cross Christmas seal campaign is an institution whose object and methods are universally recognized as worthy. As a philanthropy the purchase of Christmas seals needs no champion.

A new branch of the seal campaign in Wisconsin, this year, however, presents the annual movement in a ne light. Security dealers—bankers and bond salesmen—of Milwaukee, have volunteered to conduct a week's campaign among the business men of that city to sell the seals by the dollar instead of the penny measure. And their talking point for the sale is not to be "this is a deserving charity," but "this is a good business proposition."

The financial men, whose business is bad or good according to the barometer of industry, have discovered that to stamp out and prevent disease is to increase human efficiency. A healthy, happy community means a better security market—and a better dry goods and grocery market.

THE BATTLE OF THE BALLADS

In trenches separated by a few hundred feet of half-frozen mud, the rival armies sit and sing, according to the correspondents. One shudders to think of the deadliness of the voices after three weeks of sleeping in the open with a blizzard for a blanket and sticky mud for a mattress. The correspondents in vivid sob-stories have detailed the havoc wrought by the hoarse harmony. Touchingly they have described how the strong fighting men succumb to tears as the songs of the homeland are agonizingly tortured.

One can visualize a typical scene:

A narrow trench of the English, wind-swept, ankle-deep in mud. A tiny watch-fire accentuates the pitmurk overhead from which swooping gusts drive slanting lances of sleet. In attitude expressing exhaustion in every line lie sleeping, khaki-clad Tommies.

A captain paces backward and forward in the trench, his ears straining toward the enemy's lines, a scant pebble-toss away through the dark. Suddenly he braces himself. He listens, then stirs with his toe his sleeping accordeon-player.

Out of the dark—painful, deadly—come the strains of "Deutschland, Deutschland, Ueber Alles", from the opposing trenches.

The captain kicks savagely, and the player awakes. Aroused, his patriotism is proof against exhaustion. His trained ear has realized the fate that threatens. Swiftly he snatches his faithful weapon, numb fingers groping for the stops.

A wail breaks forth, and the listening ear identifies occasional strains of the dreaded English "Tipperary".

At the first discord the company springs to its feet, each eye turned toward the captain. With the daring of desperation he waves his tuning fork.

"They're at it again, men!" he roars. "Will they never let us sleep! Have at 'em, for the glory of Old England! Clear throats to repel attack! NOW! !"

Savagely he bites the tuning fork, and with one voice, as creaky as an ungreased saw, the company opens its counter-attack with "Rule Britania."

For half an hour the battle rages. Now a German volunteer quartet bravely essays the attack with "Lauterbach," only to be beaten back by an English whiskey-tenor, sacrificing his vocal chords for his country in "Britons Never Shall Be Slaves." Yodles, solos, topical songs and catches hurtle back and forth, but each side stands its ground. Gradually the violence subsides, as man after man drops to earth, panting and exhausted. The battle is drawn. The roar of conflict ends.

The English captain passes among his men, dealing out encouragement and bronchial lozenges, while across the darkness between, his German opponent doggedly turns to the contemptation of a new fugue involving the strategic elements of the next harmonic attack.

* * * *

Thus the "war correspondent," made "string fiend" by a news-devastating censorship, incites our fancy by his sobful minstrelsy. For a stickful of truth there's a page of mush. However, wiping away the tears, there remains a golden truth about singing soldiers. Music fires patriotism and courage, makes lighter the moment's burden, inspires hope and cheers the weary soul. And as the song leaps from pit to pit, from Teuton to Frank, from Slav to Anglo-Saxon, even as the hail of death falls thickest, it stirs that emotion which is the soul-seed of the Universal Brotherhood.

VODKA YA MEAN? WATER YA MEAN!

Among the vehicles commandeered by the Czar is the water-wagon.

While the lula fado is now the popular dancing fad, recent reports of a Russian retreat "of strategic importance" suggest that Russians have not abandoned the turkey trot.

And during the turkey trot the exultant sultan may have paradoxically sung, "It's a bear, it's a bear, it's a bear."

Digging out Greek roots in the Viroqua high school has been succeeded by the more practical agricultural specialty of hoeing corn.

It is to be hoped that Germany will not need money so badly as to hoch der Kaiser.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The European War Fakers

(As Longfellow would have written it.)

Should you ask me whence these stories,
Whence these legends and traditions,
With the odor of the poppy
And aroma of the dope pipe,
With the curdling tales of carnage,
With the stories of the sea fights,
With their frequent repetitions
And their wild reverberations,
As of thunder of the mountains,
I should answer, I should tell you:
"From the typewriters in London,
From the dope fiends o'er in Paris,
Who smoke up most every morning
On the pill that's made from poppy."
I repeat this as I heard it
From the lips of Barding Davis,
Mighty Yankee with a record
For much wartime specializing;
From the lips of John McCutcheon,
Irvin Cobb and Frederick Palmer,
Mary Boyle O'Reilly also,
And of Shepherd and Bill Irwin;
And of Jim O'Donnell Bennett.
As their tales unfold, we're staggered
By the carnage European.
But impressed are we more strongly
By the bunk of local fakers,
Fakers, French and fakers English,
Fakers Russian, fakers German,
Fakers Austrian and Belgian,
Swiss and Servian and Italian,
Who have fed us to the limit
On false rumors pyrotechnic,
Who have sunk ships single handed,
Ships that never had existed;
Who have captured entire nations
By one hour on their typewriters.
They have killed off kings and princes
Every morning before breakfast—
They have bunked us till we don't know
Where we're at and are not caring.
How we yearn for peace and quiet.
We've digested all the "war news"
We can handle for a decade.
Much is real, but more is phony,
And it all has got the money.

Just a Plain Commuter

"Your honor," said the prisoner, "I am not a burglar. These jimmies and explosives found in my bag were not meant for dishonest purposes."

"Then why did you carry them with you?" asked the interested judge.

"I travel daily between my home in Swarthmore and the city," replied the prisoner, "and I use them to open the car windows."

Whereupon he was honorably discharged.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Meritorious

Jerome S. McWade of Duluth said on a roof garden:

"I often wondered in the past why the magazines printed such rotten stories. I know now. A young lady put me onto the secret.

"She said that the magazine editors were very susceptible, and all a woman contributor needed to do was to flatter them—to praise the color of their eyes or the shape of their whiskers—and they could then sell the silly old editors anything, positively anything."

Mr. McWade puffed a cloud of smoke up toward the starry sky, and with a chuckle resumed:

"The young lady writer said at the end:

"'I wouldn't stoop to such low methods. I stand on my own merits, I do.'"

Mr. McWade chuckled again.

"I glanced down at the young lady's slit skirt," he added, "and then said to her:

"'And a very beautiful pair of merits they are, too!'"—Exchange.

An Untruthful Word

The customer in the grocery store, having ruined his clothes, was hopping mad.

"Didn't you see that sign, 'Fresh Paint?'" asked the grocer.

"Of course, I did," snapped the customer, "but I've seen so many signs hung up here announcing something fresh which wasn't that I didn't believe it."

Exersion Rates

The excursion train was well filled, when the conductor came around and a comfortably seated passenger said to him: "Der ticket dakes me two vays for von price, don't it?"

"Yes," replied the conductor.

"Vell, den, shust dell me vich is der vay dot cost nodings, I vant to enchoy me der free ride."

Market Note

C. W. Chessmen bought eggs as usual Saturday, and as usual cased them for shipment Monday morning. When he came down to his poultry house he heard insistent cries of very young and helpless poultry. A hasty examination revealed the fact that one case was hatching out. To buy eggs on Saturday and be able to ship them out as poultry Monday is going some in a poultry way.—Tin (Mo.) Slow and Sure

"My lawn mower is so dull it won't cut anything," said Mr. Crosslots.

"Never mind," replied the nervous neighbor. "You keep running it late at night and early in the morning, as usual, and pretty soon the grass will curl up and die for lack of sleep."—Washington Star.

Is a Powerful Influence in Blood

Works With a Definite Purpose and Is a Known Antidote.

There are some things in medicine that are certain and definite. They do the work. S. S. S. is one of these reliables and is a known antidote for all blood troubles. More than that, it is harmless, for it does not hurt the stomach, does not affect the bones and joints, nor does it alter the integrity of the nerves and spine. But it does sweep through the blood, a powerful, searching, cleansing influence, remarkable for results and a tremendous relief to those who suffer the humiliation of skin eruptions.

Nearly all sickness is due to sluggish blood. And if you let S. S. S. bathe your system with its wonderful influence your nervous troubles, your wan, weary, faded, listless, lifeless body will revive and become so renewed with the sense of enjoyable health you will scarcely know yourself. Try S. S. S. today. Get a bottle at any drug store. It will put you on your feet; keep you going all day and enable you to sleep sound and restful. S. S. S. is not a "dope," not a physic, but a fine, bracing, purifying medicine that is sure to do you a world of good.

It is just what you need. S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 60 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you are troubled with any stubborn blood disease their medical department will guide you safely to health. Write them.

It may be, also—for where there is a will, there's a way—he didn't quite want himself discharged. There was a certain weird fascination about being a bona-fide member of Amad's own household. Primarily the dervish had been entertained very charmingly by her and now he was being employed, indirectly, by him. He seemed doomed to be a kind of family fixture. He wouldn't intentionally have intruded upon Amad, but now that he was here he experienced anew, and more emphatically, the desire to gaze upon him. In fact, his curiosity had developed amazingly in that respect.

He wanted to know what manner of man that more or less lucky Number One was. Was he short, or tall; handsome or the reverse? Had he the bearing of a lover? Did he carry himself like a hero? Had his good looks carried all (that is, her) before them? Was their divorce merely another case of temperamental disagreement? Would she some day feel sorry and want to go back to him? He didn't like to think about that, but he had to. It belonged to the contingencies. These handsome fellows, externally, are sometimes not very handsome inwardly. Maybe he had neglected her. No; no one could ever neglect her. The dervish promptly dismissed that preposterous contingency. Perhaps he could gage the affair better when he saw Amad, and he would risk a good deal to that end. To leave Damascus without beholding his predecessor would leave an aching void forever in the adventure. It would be like a story uncompleted; or a play that broke off in the middle. Ethically, he ought to see Amad. He had to.

But what if Amad saw him? That was another question and an important one. Would he recognize the dervish? Did he know him by sight? Had Amad arranged with the dyer to gaze upon the luckless and now well-hated mustahall? It was possible; for the dyer and his whilom guest had ridden past Amad's house when they had repaired to Light of Life's. The dervish recalled now they had gone somewhat out of their way to pass in faront of Amad's imposing residence. He had thought nothing of their so doing at the time, but now the circumstance seemed fraught with significance. He remembered looking up at Amad's house and fancying he detected a pair of eyes gleaming behind a lattice. It might have been merely a curious maid servant, or it might have been Amad. The dervish was inclined to the latter conclusion.

It followed then, that he must see Amad, without being seen by him. That might not be so difficult, for Amad, of course, would never dream he was there, and his position, as only an assistant gardener, or stable boy, would keep the dervish very much in the background. Amad might hunt for him feverishly without; he would scour the highways and the byways of the city, but he certainly wouldn't look for him in his own back yard. This then must be the spot of all spots for safety. It was either that, or the most dangerous. Which? At that moment, through the branches benind which he stood, he saw a face.

A man stood at a back window of the house and was looking out. He was well over seventy. In his evil and wizened visage, above the white beard like ashes on his breast, his eyes were glowing coals of fire. They were angry eyes and also most determined. He was gorgeously dressed, his robes being of the finest texture and the details of his attire, besides indicating his opulence and worldly importance, denoted further that he could boast of being a sherf, or descendant of the prophet. His turban was of dark green and on it shone a superb jewel. Pictorially he was perfect. He could have dominated in a great canvas by Fortuny.

The observer in the garden had given a great start. Was that Amad?—that? Fortunately, the leaves fairly screened the dervish, for in his surprise he forgot to turn away his face. That, his predecessor—that? He could almost have laughed. The dyer had said Amad was of just the "right" age. The right age? That wicked-looking old man—beside whom she was as a beautiful white flower!

But perhaps this was not Amad, at all; only some other member of the household, some relative? Her grandfather-in-law? He was old enough for that, the dervish muttered to himself savagely through his teeth.

"You—" The man at the window, whoever he was, called out a name loudly. The voice had a familiar sound. At first, the dervish thought it meant to summon him. But this was not so. The servant who had befriended the dervish the night before came hastily out of the stable and hurried into the house. A moment later the dervish saw him at the elderly person's side.

"I am here, Amad Ahl-Masr. What is your pleasure?"

The dervish scarcely needed now the confirmation of those words to assure him of the truth, and the tragedy of one so young, so fair, married to this man, came over him as a shock. He shouldn't have felt that way, he told himself, but he did. Spring wedded to winter! It often happened. There were reasons for it happening. Nice, practical, worldly reasons! The girl had beauty—wonderful beauty. In a mental background he saw Light of Light, and the dervish scowled. An evil woman that! Indignation began to seethe in his brain. He forgot he was a sentimental iconoclast and should only shrug his shoulders or lift his eyebrows over these things. He forgot that he, also, cut no heroic figure, a husband who had been bought for her, a Number Two, and not much of a Number Two, at that. He experienced a rather vivid interest in what Amad was saying to the servant. The latter's prompt appearance had relieved what might have been a somewhat embarrassing contretemps. There was a possibility it might even yet develop into one. Indeed, there was a strong probability it would.

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—11 A. M.—General Von Hindenberg has now reached the most critical part of his critical journey to Warsaw. At Lowicz and Skierniewicz he has planted his army, straddle-wise, on the two main northern and southern railway lines, which, at these two points, begin to converge on Warsaw. The straddle is fifteen miles long. The angle formed by the two railways runs forty-five miles before it comes to its apex at Warsaw.

This angle must be held by the Germans in order to command both of the railways. Hitherto, Von Hindenberg has been compelled to protect only one railway line—the northern. Now, however, he must make sure of the southern as well, or risk serious danger of being outflanked. Beside the railway angle, there is a river angle which the Germans are entering, alive with perilous possibilities. This river angle is formed by the Vistula. After passing almost straight across Poland from the German boundary, the Vistula swings sharply to the south just before reaching Warsaw and forms a right angle with itself. Warsaw is on the north-south leg of the angle, about ten miles from the angle point. On the east-west leg and the same distance from the angle point is Novo Georgievsk, a first class fortress of great strength.

Into this maw between the fortifications of Warsaw and Novo Georgievsk Von Hindenberg must venture. If he is outflanked or is caught in the rear, he will be driven between the fortresses and against the Vistula with a catastrophe inevitable. In face, however, of the risks of Von Hindenberg is running is the fact that no Slav commander has shown a capacity for directing a coup of this nature. Nevertheless, the fact remains that at no time during the war has there been so splendid an opportunity for a devastating stroke as Von Hindenberg is now offering the Russians.

The risks are such that probably nobody but Von Hindenberg would accept. His own army is certainly outnumbered two to one if not more; while the Russian roads are in poor condition. Von Hindenberg, however, is of the type who revels in such handicaps. His open criticisms of the kaiser's strategy at the army maneuvers during peace were what caused him to be on the retired list when the war broke out.

To Organize Red Cross

At a meeting of the Woman's Civic Improvement club plans were laid for organizing a branch of the American Red Cross society in this city. The Unique theater has offered to give the organization one-half of the proceeds of their theater Wednesday night, November 25. The club accepted their offer and asks the public to make it a record breaking night. Church societies, lodges, social and literary clubs and all citizens of the city and surrounding country are expected to co-operate with the club in this worthy work.

AUTO CONTEST TO END THIS EVENING

Winner of Majestic Race Will Be Announced from Stage of Theater About 9 O'Clock

Who won the Majestic automobile contest which has been attracting much interest for several weeks past will be known about 9 o'clock tonight. At that time, or a few minutes later—at the end of the first show at the Majestic—Mayor Ori J. Sorensen, District Attorney D. S. Law and Register of Deeds Andrew Thompson, the committee of judges, will announce from the stage the names of the persons who will become the possessors of the big six-cylinder Mitchell automobile and the two diamond rings which were offered as prizes. Mayor Sorensen, chairman of the committee, will make the presentation of the prizes. Interest in the decision is general about the city today, and it is rumored that the count of votes has already been completed. Manager Koppelberger was non-committal on this point, however.

DAVIES TO QUIT NATIONAL BODY

Joseph E. Davies, corporation commissioner, is expected to tender his resignation as democratic national committeeman before Jan. 1 to the state central committee.

Although nothing definite could be learned, it is reported in democratic circles that Mr. Davies has already prepared his resignation and has informed his friends that he will present it probably at the December meeting of the state central committee.

The resignation of Mr. Davies will undoubtedly start another factional row among the democrats. State Chairman Joseph Martin, Green Bay, wants the position. John Callahan, Milwaukee, is also an acknowledged candidate.

ROB PAWNSHOP

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 23.—Two men held up David Krashin, clerk in Benjamin Walkowho's pawnshop, as he dusted the counters in the store today. While one man backed Krashin into a corner, the other collected $165 in currency and fifty diamonds, estimated in value at $2,500, twenty gold watches and a hundred rings.

Oldtime Needlework.

Needlework is so rapidly becoming a lost art that it is in the nature of a fairy tale to explain that something like half a century ago little girls, not especially precocious, either, learned the fundamental principles of threading a needle and pushing it through the fabric at the age of two and one-half years, and by the time they were three, pegged away at squares of patchwork, ultimately completing "quilts" for future use.

FAST MAIL NEARLY WRECKED FRIDAY

Opposite Bound Freight Leaves Track While Passing but Only Hits Rail of Last Coach

Fast mail train No. 55 on the Milwaukee road escaped by seconds Friday morning from being wrecked as a freight train, passing on the eastbound track, was derailed near Reeseville, obstructing the westbound main, over which the mail had but a few seconds before passed. A freight car hit the rear coach, breaking the railing.

The crew and the passengers of the train did not know at the time of their close call, as the train was far from the scene before the accident was reported.

The exact cause of the wreck, which tied up traffic on the line for more than half a day, is not known. Railroad men think that a broken rail was the cause.

Nobody was hurt in the wreck, the engine and caboose of the freight remaining on the rails. Eighteen cars from the middle of the train were derailed, many piling up on the westbound track.

ALMA

"Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone"—the truth of this old saying has been proven again by the success of the musical sensation "Alma Where Do You Live," and as the critic aptly put it "The world is now singing, laughing and dancing with this fascinating show of fun, laughter and song." This record breaking attraction will be seen at the La Crosse theater and the local manager is looking forward to a new house record on that date. Thanksgiving matinee and night.

"Alma" will appear with many of the original cast and with an excellent scenic production. This attraction is only playing a few of the larger one night stands this season.

U. S. CAPTAIN OF MARINES IN BAD WITH INTERVIEW

Secretary Daniels Starts Investigation to Find if Hill Predicted Looting at Vera Cruz, as Reported

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today ordered investigation of an interview attributed to Captain Walter N. Hill, who had charge of the marines at the taking of Vera Cruz, in which he was quoted as declaring:

"There will be looting and burning in Vera Cruz, probably before nightfall, if the American, forces leave, as they are scheduled to do."

Secretary Daniels said he wished to make no comment until General Barnett, commander of the marine corps, had learned if the interview was correct, but he had added: "Any man who makes such a statement is not fit for service in the United States navy."

No one has such a dislike for his own medicine as the political doctor.

PUBLIC DEBATE

A HABIT WORSE THAN SWEARING

At the football game last Saturday, a youngster, who had just shed his kneepants, was yelling with great ardor: "Kill him! Kill him!" His intentions were partly to show his patriotism, but evidently more to carry favor, as he was looking longingly back in admiration at some vociferous older fans, who were up in all the latest slang expressions of the game. At last, our friend stopped his urging rather shamefacedly because the audience did not seem to apreciate his brave efforts. This boy was not so much to blame, because he did not know any better, really thinking that he was doing something great; but the public, who daily countenance such uncouthness, should wake up to the seriousness of the matter. Open your ears and "see" how commonly the word "kill" is used among adults, children and even by prattling babies.

Thoughtless parents and others who set the example certainly do not realize the terrible consequences of such sanguinary expressions. You say they do not mean anything by it; of course they do not, yet, to the ignorant and criminally inclined, it may be their undoing and even mean a lifetime spent in prison. The suggestion is here, all it needs is anger, desperation, greed for money, or the like, to cause the explosion.

It behooves us, parents, teachers and all, to think this over and do what we can to remedy the evil. If we don't a time will come, that is, if the capitalists by that time have not listened to well meaning socialists, when labor will no longer ask patiently and respectfully for their perfect rights to a decent living..

Labor's patience and endurance will have come to the breaking point, and then look out for the roughneck's "Kill him! Kill him!" The willing socialist may not then be able to stay the hands of murder, any more than they were able in holding the hands of Rockefeller, Kaiser and company, when they set out to murder promiscuously, to play at war they call it, but with living beings instead of tin soldiers. As yet, we make light of the war because it is far off. The greedy business man has already roused the envy of the Germans, especially, so that they are now trying every possible way to draw us into the war and before New Year's we will be in it. Then look out for your husbands, fathers, brothers, sons and sweethearts. The sufferings at home, the utter helplessness will finally wake up the beast in the man, and then "Kill him! Kill him!"

The socialist party is the only one that forswears war, and not only that, but it wants to give every child a chance, every man a home and a decent living. Now is the time to look it up. Every socialist is as earnest as a Wendell Phillips and will help you. All you need is a little moral courage, backbone is what they call it.

The Touchstone of Charity.

Never to despise, never to judge rashly, never to interpret other men's actions in an ill sense; but to compassionate their infirmities, bear their burdens, excuse their weaknesses, make up and consolidate the breaches of charity happened by their fault, to hate imperfections, and ever to love men, yea, even your enemies; therein the touchstone of true charity is known.—N. Caussin.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

DEATH IS UNABLE TO PUT LAST PERIOD TO CRANK'S ECCENTRICITIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Having survived thirty-three "police pinches" for automobile joy rides, innumerable aerial sprints, and a trip replete with adventure around the world in his yacht Mist, Harold Osgood Binney, New York's prize eccentric, finally succumbed through the dross medium of an overdose of headache powders. His body was cremated today in accordance with his expressed belief that if his mortal remains were incinerated his "immortal remains would not be."

The last twenty-five of Binney's forty-seven years teemed with the spectacular. He was a sculptor, painter, chemist, civil and electrical engineer, lawyer, aviator, yachtsman, cosmopolite and believer in ideas.

Some of the stunts by which Binney hurled himself into print follow:

Invited members of the United States supreme court to lunch with him.

Joined more than twenty clubs in a few months.

Ran his yacht Mist ashore in an effort to reach the Atlantic City board walk from the ocean.

Organized "white hand society" while in the workhouse, to get prisoners "their rights."

Binney was released from the workhouse on Nov. 4 when the authorities finally succeeded in persuading his wife and mother to put up $1,000 bond to keep the peace. He had been pinched for speeding.

istration is due to serious pressure from the missionary interests of the United States alarmed for the safety of their representatives.

At the same time, however, the Turkish government has been assured by Ambassador Morgenthau that the United States believes the porte will protect all Americans under its jurisdiction. An official report from the ambassador explaining that Turkey has disavowed any hostile intent in connection with the shot at the Tennessee's launch is expected very soon. Unofficial advices from Constantinople say that a complete explanation has been furnished the ambassador.

DO YOU WANT TO FEED SOME POOR FAMILY IN CITY?

"Is there is a person in La Crosse who wants to personally give a dinner to some poor family in La Crosse on Thanksgiving day, but who does not know where that family is?"

This question is being put to the people of La Crosse by Miss Nadia Thomas, secretary of the Associated Charities.

She is ready to furnish the names of several families who are in want of a good dinner on that day. Many families are being cared for, but according to her, there are many who will be hungry if you don't help.

UNITED STATES TO BE CONSTRUCTIVE POWER IN WORLD

for the great Panama canal, caused much discussion among his listeners.

Today he explained his stand more thoroughly.

"I favored the fortification of the Panama canal," said the congressman, "because I had no faith in its proposed neutralization. The frailty of neutralization is being clearly demonstrated in Europe today where neutral countries and provinces—Belgium for instance—have gone down before the powers rushing at each other's throats."

Forts Annihilated

In his address yesterday he said:

"Europe is teaching us that armament will not maintain peace. The strongest fortifications in the world are as naught against the destructive genius of man. The forts of Belgium, for example, thought to be among the world's most impregnable, have fallen as a house of cards before the gigantic siege guns of the Germans."

While the assassination of Crown Prince Ferdinand of Austria and his consort by a Servian student is alleged to be the cause of the war, to explain the fundamental reasons would necessitate a return to the days of Charlemagne when he distributed the lands of Europe between his sons, said the speaker.

War is Costly

The awful financial cost of the war was briefly outlined by Mr. Esch who told of the millions it takes to build one battleship which may be destroyed in an instant by a torpedo seven feet long and costing in the neighborhood of $1,000.

While admitting that The Hague had failed in its duty to maintain peace, Mr. Esch was strong in his endorsement of the work that had been accomplished by that body and strong in his predictions that Europe, when exhausted from a long and terrific struggle, will turn to a national tribunal for settlement of the difficulties.

After stating that Austria's quarrel with Servia could have been amicably settled by The Hague, the speaker took occasion to explain the importance of that tribunal.

Conference Called

"In 1899, Czar Nicholas of Russia wanted peace in the entire world and called a conference of the powers of the earth to be held in Holland. Andrew D. White was sent from the United States.

"That conference made three declarations, and held three conventions," said Mr. Esch. "The first convention brought about means for peaceful agreements between nations. The second fixed agreements as to methods of warring nations while fighting on land. The third related to the treatment of hospitals of warring nations, their ambulances, and practically made these institutions sacred ground which none of the fighting nations could touch. Every house containing a wounded man was neutralized.

"It was at this conference that the Red Cross society had its origin. The conference determined that a white flag bearing a red cross should be flown from hospitals and ambulances and should be worn by those attending the wounded.

"But in spite of all these efforts, these men could not forestall the strife which now exists. The killing of the ruler of Austria was an insult the people would not carry to a court.

U. S. Has War Debt

"It is safe to say that the war will cost Europe five billions of dollars, and it is not the tremendous burden which the people of Europe have to stand now, but the drain on the enterprise and energies of the people for one hundred years and more, that is the appalling thought.

"At the present time, there is a debt of one million dollars from the civil war on the government of this country."

Democracy to Grow

Mr. Esch also said that democracy which is now alive in Europe, will grow; that with democracy and a republican form of government the people there will be enabled to choose whether or not they want war.

The war will kill much of the extravagance and vice in the old world, he maintained. Gay Paree today is a city of sorrow; London at night is in darkness, the people fearing a raid by derigibles; Brussels is a captured city and Petrograd and Berlin bow their heads in sorrow for the brothers, fathers and sweethearts who have met death on the field of battle.

"In closing I want to say that our greatest gain will be in maintaining a strict neutrality; demonstrating through our generosity and self-sacrifice our desire to help the suffering people of Europe; to show that they are our neighbors and thus demonstrate the brotherhood of man."

PEACOCK RECEIVED AS NEW MINISTER

Baptist Pastor Is Given Charge Yesterday with A. C. Gran Officiating at Services

"Thou, therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.

"And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also."—2 Timothy 2: 1-2.

With the charge of responsibility and fellowship to the church and to the pastor by A. C. Gran, Rev. W. J. Peacock was yesterday morning formally installed as pastor of the First Baptist church, taking the place of Rev. W. Adelbert Billings, recently resigned.

The service was opened with an organ prelude by Malcolm Maine, followed by the singing of the Doxology and the invocation by Mr. Gran, who was in charge of the installation service. Following the singing of the Gloria and of the hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King" and the reading of the scripture lesson from 2 Timothy, the installation proper took place. The right hand of fellowship was extended the new pastor by Senior Deacon C. F. Emery. The installation prayer was uttered by Mr. Gran. The hymn, "Fling Out The Banner," was sung, followed by routine numbers of the service. Miss Elsie Fischer sang a solo.

Taking for his text the passage from 2 Timothy and for his theme, "The Church Taking Itself Seriously," Rev. Peacock made an appeal to his congregation to take matters of the church and of church work more seriously if they expect the church to carry out its mission in this world.

Stop "Backsliding"

Drawing a mental picture of the ascension of the Lord, with his eleven remaining disciples around him, Rev. Peacock told of the effect on "backsliders" of the firm word of a single individual. He pictured the Lord as giving his exhortations to the disciples to 'Go out and convert the world" and the efforts of the followers to shirk the duty with numerous excuses until the Apostle Peter spoke up, saying that he would follow the instructions of the Master, with the result that the other ten forgot their selfish motives and swore to devote their lives to the furthering of the work of their Lord. A similar effect can be produced in this present world, the speaker said, by one individual who is willing to take a stand, and consider himself seriously in regard to his work and his position.

"Put your chest forward just a little, boys," the pastor exhorted in speaking to the children of the congregation, meaning that the younger generation should put more confidence in themselves.

"With a spirit of seriousness, an individual has a better chance in this competitive world. So is it with the church. Let us realize that the Lord expects us to take our Christian talents seriously."

Rev. Peacock urged more seriousness on church work if for no other purpose than good advertising for the church, in the same manner in which the commercial world gets its wares before the public eye.

"AMBUSH FIEND" KILLED BY POLICE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 23.—John Miller, a negro, believed to be the Chattanooga "ambush fiend," with a record during the past month of three killed and ten wounded, is dead today. Two city detectives were wounded in a fight with the negro before a bullet felled him. Outlying districts of Chattanooga have been terrorized by shots fired from ambush. A butcher, grocer and night watchman have been victims.

FRENCH ORDER FOR OVERCOATS REFUSED

An order for 300,000 sheepskin overcoats for the French army, totaling $650,000, has been refused by Martin Bros., local clothing manufacturers.

"We have to take care of our regular business," said Mr. L. H. Martin today, "and for that reason turned down the offer from the French government. The offer came to us through a friend of this company who is a government contractor."

POSTAL TERMINAL OPENS HERE TODAY

Local Institution to Distribute Mail for Points as Far West as the Dakotas

The new railway postal terminal building at Second and State streets was officially opened this morning.

Instead of mail being distributed on trains, it will be brought to La Crosse, distributed, and sent out to points as far distant as South Dakota. The prime reason for locating the terminal at La Crosse, was for the handling of parcel post mail mater, which had practically clogged up distributions on trains.

Eight men have permanent employment at the present, and more may be added in the future as the business grows.

Many railway postal men whose homes were in Winona and other river ccities, will become citizens of La Crosse.

TRAP SHOOTERS OUT FOR MEET

More than thirty trapshooters turned out yesterday morning to the annual duck shoot of the La Crosse Gun club held at the range of the club on the North side. Frank Schwalbe led the field with a score of 42, made after several weeks of cessation of the regular shoots of the club.

Following are the names of the fifteen winners in the three classes:

Class A—F. Schwalbe, 42; J. A. Bartl, 37; C. C. Mitchell, 36; Gus Rose, 35; A. Tausche,.

Class B—Alex Moll, 33; George Mueller, 32; H. B. Bozard, 32; Myron Savage, 30; C. F. Sutor, 28.

Class C—J. E. Higbee, 21; L. F. Kroner, 21; Myron Locke, 19; L. Walther, 9; George Rose, 8.

FUNERAL OF LOCAL MAN TO BE TUESDAY

The body of Parker Boyton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Boynton, 324 West avenue south, was to arrive in the city at 6:05 tonight over the Burlington road. Mr. Boynton died at Dallas, Texas, Friday night of typhoid-pneumonia.

The funeral will be held at 2:00 o'clock tomorrow from the residence on West avenue. Rev. W.J. Peacock, pastor of the First Baptist church, will have charge of the services. Mrs. P. L. Cilley will sing two numbers. Interment will take place in Oak Grove cemetery. Pallbearers will be chosen from among the young men of the First Baptist church.

TON OF NITRO LETS GO; NOBODY HURT BUT WINDOW PANES

GARY, Ind., Nov. 23.—Two hundred workmen in the plant of the Aetna Powder company, Aetna, Ind., had narrow escapes from death or injury when 2,000 pounds of nitroglycerine exploded today. No one was killed or injured and the principal damage was done in Gary where hundreds of plate glass windows were broken.

The explosion occurred in what was known as the "separator house." Two workmen smelled fumes escaping from the nitro and scenting danger blew the "Danger whistle."

Employes of the plant fled to an open field and two minutes later the nitro-glycerine let go.

HUSTING PROTESTS SENATORIAL COUNT

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 23—Attorney William Timlin, representing Paul O. Husting, Saturday presented a petition to the board of canvassers contesting the right of Gov. McGovern to demand a recount, asserting that Mr. McGovern's charges are not specific enough.

Mr. Timlin also demanded that all the recounts for which petitions have been filed, be completed at once. Chairman William E. McCarty communicated with Attorney General W. C. Owen for advice.

RAY HISCOX HURT ON HUNTING TRIP

Ray Hiscox, formerly of this city, is in a Milwaukee hospital suffering from shotgun wounds sustained while hunting in the northern part of the state. A companion, with a pump-gun, shot and to get another load into a bird swung and fired. The shot shoved the forehead of Mr. Hiscox and several of the leaden pellets lodged in his eye. He will recover without the loss of his eye.

BABY'S FUNERAL TODAY.

Funeral services for Irene Johnson, infant daughter of Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Victory, Wis., took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the home of Mr. Samuel Johnson, 1021 Johnson street. Rev. J. E. Watson officiated. Interment took place at Oak Grove cemetery.

TO ADDRESS K. OF P.

It doesn't take footprints in the sands of time to prove that some people are going backward.

COLORADO TO ASK TROOPS REMOVAL

Labor Leaders Protest that Action Will Bring War Again in Mine Field

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—President Wilson will confer with Secretary Garrison in the near future regarding the Colorado situation. Word reached the White house today that the Colorado authorities will, within the next 48 hours, formally apply to the administration to withdraw the federal troops from that state. The state authorities are now said to be willing to assume responsibility for maintaining order.

Meanwhile, emphatic protest against taking the troops out has been made by officials of the United Mine Workers of America. They alleged that in reorganizing the militia to deal with the coal fields, the Colorado authorities had kept in service many men responsible for much of the past disorder.

HALL-VERKET NUPTIALS TODAY

Miss Hanna Verket, daughter of Mrs. H. Verket, 1527 Jackson street, and Norman G. Hall, proprietor of the Wisconsin Dairy Products Store, 104 Main street, were married at 1 o'clock this afternoon by Rev. D. C. Jones at the First Presbyterian church parsonage. Glynn Hall, brother of the groom, and Miss Martha Lunde attended the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will be at home at 736 Winnebago street after December 15. They left this afternoon for Chicago.

SEEK RELATIVES OF A. N. DONALSON

La Crosse authorities have been requested to locate relatives of A. N. Donaldson who is believed to be dying in the Granite hotel, Spokane, Wash., the result of a paralytic stroke. Telegrams to Mayor Sorensen say he is believed to have come from La Crosse.

WON'T MIX

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix.

The human stomach stands much abuse but it won't return good health if you give it bad food.

If you feed right you should feel right, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health for I began to suffer after each meal no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman.

"I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful with the result that I was not nourished and got weak and thin.

"My home cares were very heavy, for beside a large family of my own I have also to look out for an aged mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down.

"I read an article in the paper about some one with trouble like mine being helped by Grape-Nuts food and acting on this suggestion I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of this delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing.

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach disappeared as if by magic and in an incredibly short space of time I was again myself. Since then I have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts." BOND SALESMEN TO SELL XMAS SEALS

Milwaukee Security Dealers Enter Campaign to Sell Red Cross Stamps

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—By making a business of selling Red Cross Christmas seals to moneyed men and large financial interests as an investment of security, the bond salesmen of Milwaukee, including representatives of all its banks, its bonding concerns, life insurance companies, and other financial corporations, will this year carry on the most unique selling campaign that Wisconsin has ever known. They are inaugurating a plan which will probably be copied by other cities in this and other states and which promises to be one of the most effective means of financing the right against disease, which is being carried on by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and kindred organizations. The sale will be entirely separate from the usual sale carried on by the association through its campaign managers, the schools and other agencies.

Following the statement of Samuel Hopkins Adams, the eastern magazine writer wh has been in Wisconsin gathering material for an article on the public health work of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, to the effect that the Wisconsin organization is the most expert and most economically administered of the state associations for fighting disease, it occurred to several Milwaukee men that such a work should not be forced to rely for financial support solely on the pennies brought in by the annual sale of Christmas seals.

The Milwaukee men decided that the work of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association deserved recognition from the state and from its large financial interests as a business proposition rather than as a business proposition rather than as a philanthropy.

On the thirtieth day of November, a selling force of from thirty-five to fifty of the best known bond and security salesmen in the city of Milwaukee, organized into four teams captained by representative bondmen, will start out on a systematic campaign to sell Christmas seals by the hundreds of dollars worth. They will call only on business men, leaving the general field to the school children and other agencies in the regular sale, and will work for one week, each man having volunteered to devote at least from one to two hours to this special campaign.

"MUSICAL MARINES" HEAD MAJESTIC BILL

First Half Week Show Exceptional; Posing Act a Wonder for Cleverness of Detail

In a musical act, "The Musical Marines," the Woods-Ralton company, comedy instrumentalists, present one of the musical hits of the year in headlining a fine bill at the Majestic for the first part of the week.

The versatility of the five musicians of the act is remarkable, cornets, trombones, zylophones, sailors' hornpipes, saxophones, accordeons, an organ and clarinets being used. A trombone solo with cornet accompaniment, scores one of the hits of the act, while the finale on zylophones proves a big feature.

The Cliff Dean players in the comedy sketch "The Editor" portray the experiences of a hard-worked editor with a hard-headed "boss" and a refractory telephone operator. The act is one with a moral.

A remarkable animal posing act, picturing a "Hunting Morn" in Europe, elicits the unanimous applause of the audience through its beauty and the way in which the statuesque effects are produced. The four dogs and the horse of the act, all marble-white, are trained to a letter, quite necessary for the difficult act. A number of poses suggestive of the hunt are staged.

Allen and Graves, in a comedy singing and dancing act, and Joe Carroll and partner in a similar act, round out an exceptionally good bill. The usual run of "movies" are shown.

HOSTILE AIRMEN RAID ZEPPELIN SHED

British Aviators Drop Bombs on Dirigible Plant at Friedrichshafen and Pay Penalty

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 23.—Two British aviators raided the Zeppelin sheds at Friederichshafen yesterday, and dropped six bombs, according to dispatches received here. One aeroplane was brought down by the German soldiers guarding the dirigible plans, and one of the officers was severely injured. The other, according to reports here, fell into Lake Constance.

BASLE, Switzerland, Nov. 23.—The Zeppelin factory at Friedrichshafel is now turning out a giant dirigible every three weeks. This rate has been maintained constantly since the opening of the war, it is stated here.

There are varying reports today as to the damage done by the aviators who dropped bombs upon the Zeppelin sheds, and also as to the fate of the airmen. All agree that one machine, carrying a British officer, was brought down. The officer was seriously wounded. Other reports declare the two machines escaped, but an unconfirmed rumor declares one of the aeroplanes fell in Lake Constance.

Week Financial

Copyright, 1914, by the New York Evening Post.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Action by the Stock exchange authorities in holding up the plan to resume official trading in bonds at the moment when arrangements had been almost perfected for beginning operations today, has been the subject of much comment. Nothing has been said as to just why this postponement was made, except that "insurmountable difficulties" had been encountered.

There is a good deal to be said on both sides, but the exchange probably adopted the policy of least resistance and, in order to avoid any complications, determined to postpone action for some days. The proposal was to permit trading on a restricted basis only, and at a level of minimum quotations to be prescribed by the comittee. Just what effect this experiment would have depends on the level of quotations adopted and the attitude of the investing public.

The fact that no complications attended the reopening of the cotton exchange, led many to believe that the time had arrived for making the test in Wall street. The financial situation is fast righting itself, and the indications are that before long it will be possible to bring about normal conditions in many branches of Wall street activity.

No disturbance of any kind has attended the process of shifting reserves from the member banks to the twelve federal reserve banks which formally opened their doors last Monday.

RECORD CROWD AT GALESVILLE MEET

Biggest Convention in History of West Wisconsin District Is in Session

GALESVILLE, Wis., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The biggest convention in the history of the Western Wisconsin Christian Endeavor district opened Friday in the Presbyterian church here with addresses by Rev. Edgar T. Farriil of Waukesha, state field secretary for Christian Endeavor, and Rev. Harding R. Hogan of Sparta, who spoke on the work being accomplished by the Presbyterian church abroad.

Rev. Farriil conducted a round table conference Saturday which was attended by the majority of the delegates. An outing on the lake and a "hike" into the country was taken in the afternoon. The program for the evening consisted of a big song service and another address by Rev. Farriill. The convention closed Sunday evening with a regular Christian Endeavor service and an address by Rev. Farriil.

GERMANS PLAN TO ROAST OUT ALLIES?

PARIS, Nov. 23. — Reports reaching headquarters today indicate the Germans may be about to try a new plan of driving the allied troops from their trenches in Flanders by the use of huge steel barges of burning oil.

Barges in great numbers have been brought up at the rear together with great quantities of crude oil. It is believed to be the intention of the Germans to launch these along the Yser and in the inundated sections between the Dixmude and the coast.

OFFERS HOME TO BOY HERO OF WAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—When Stanny Stanislaus, who brought water under fire to the 600 Austrian soldiers, gets over that big wound in his chest, he can have a nice home right here in Indianapolis—that is, if the little fellow is willing to leave his soldier friends and cannot find his mother and father. There is a childless home here that is just aching for a little boy, and the story written by William G. Shepherd, the United Press correspondent at Vienna, awakened in this home a great longing to have just such a boy as Stanny.

The story of the 11 year old boy who won the Austrian iron cross by tending "wounded under fire" was read by Mrs. John Klein. She showed it to her husband. He wrote the United Press.

"I sincerely hope that Stanny has recovered," he wrote. "He is indeed a brave lad, and such a boy should be taken care of. I could be glad to take the boy and give him a good home. Of course I am not rich, but I have a beautiful home and as my wife and I have no children, I would be glad to take the boy and give him a good Christian education."

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Bearish cables and a slackening of the foreign demand caused selling pressure in the wheat pit early today and prices dropped ⅜ to ⅝c. On the decline there was plenty of buying and a rally forced options back to about Saturday's close.

Corn futures lost ⅜c during the forenoon, fine marketing weather proving a bearish influence.

Oats was steady at the start, but lost ¼c before on the weakness in the other pits early in the day.

Provisions sagged and went a trifle lower despite hogs receipts being light at the stock yards.

Wheat advanced sharply in the afternoon, gaining ½ to ⅝c. Corn and oats futures advanced a shade on the gain in wheat. Provisions clased at about noon prices.

British Admiralty Informs State Department They Will Give Sailing Directions Through Channel

VIROQUAN ENTERS A PROTEST

Says Mining of North Sea Was Not Justified; England Claims It Is in War Arena

Following protests from this congressional district against the mining of the North Atlantic ocean between Scotland and Iceland, a distance of 526 miles, Congressman John J. Esch this morning received from Acting Secretary of State Lansing word that the British admiralty maintains the territory to be within the war area and that, therefore, its mining was justified.

The British admiralty, however, has informed the United States state department that commerce of neutral countries can continue but that the route must be through the Straits of Dover or the English Channe.

The British admiralty has further informed the state department, according to Secretary Lansing's letter, that vessels bound for Norway, Sweden and other Scandinavian countries upon reaching the English channel will be given sailing directions which will make certain safe journey to their destination.

K. D. Nelson was one of the several of Mr. Esch's constituents who protested against the mining of the North sea.

BLACK HAND FIRE FATAL TO EIGHT

Tenement in New York City Burns with Eight Inmates and Police Blame Society

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Roused as they have not had since the bomb outrages in Union Square years ago, New York police officials today declared a war of extermination against the greater city's black handers. With a record of two bomb-settings and two incendiary fires within three weeks and the perpetrators still unknown, the power of the entire police force centered on running down the men who set two fires yesterday, one of which resulted in the death of eight persons.

Six members of a family of seven, were trapped in the flaming hallways of the tenement at 403 East 29th street and burned to death. Police officials declared today they have conclusive evidence that the building was fired by black handers whose demand for "protection money" were refused by Gaetno Schmbri, a tenant. The eighth victim, a woman, escaped, but died a few hours later from shock and exposure.

Less than ten hours after the 29th street tenement had been gutted and while detectives swarmed through the neighborhood, a second fire was set last night at 144 West 28th street. The tenants were rescued with difficulty.

ILLINI AND JOHNS SECTIONAL CHAMPS

Illinois in West and Harvard in the East Earn Undisputed Titles of Their Sections

ZUPPKE WOULD PLAY EASTERNERS

Illinois Mentor and Sporting Writers Concede the Chance for the Suckers Against Haughton Men

BY JAMES O'DEA
(Written for the United Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The sneaking suspicion lurked around western football camp fires today that Illinois and Nebraska, apparently the class of the west this year, could have made things mighty interesting for Harvard or Dartmouth.

"Mind you," says the west, remembering what happened to Notre Dame at New Haven, "we don't say Illinois and Nebraska could beat them, but they could make the perspiration roll."

There is a dearth of statistics by which to rate the prize elevens of east and west. The western statisticians prefer to forget what Syracuse and Cornell did to the Michiganders and argue via Harvard's seven to nothing victory over Yost's eleven.

Both the hard hearted "figgers" and officials who worked in western games this year seem to come to an agreement that Michigan was by no means the best eleven west of the Alleghenies in 1914. They nosed out the Michigan Aggies only 3 to 0, whereas the Nebraskans walloped the Aggies 24 to 0, the following week Quite naturally the Nebraskans believe they could have done better than to take a seven to nothing licking from Harvard.

Illinois works another line of rope. It was quite generally believed that in the fleetfooted Pogue, the sensation-maker Clark and the stalwart line plungers Macomber and Schobinger, the Illini had a backfield that could rip off first downs where Michigan's backs were unable to stir.

"If Johnny Moulbetsch knocked gaps in Harvard's defense," argue the Illini 'where would the Crimson be with the Pogue-Clark-Macomber-Schobinger crowd working?"

Answer: Who knows? But the west is disappointed because John Harvard couldn't see the Illinois proposal for a post season game that would have settled the argument.

Harvard Wins on Percentage

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—On both percentage and dope Harvard fully deserves the title for the football championship of the east. Of nine games played, the Crimson won seven. One resulted in a 13-13 tie with Penn State; another ended in a scoreless total with Brown university. Army and Union, of all the eastern elevens, were the only ones not to suffer defeat this fall. The West Pointers won all of the eight games they played; Union won all of her seven contests. But even the most enthusiastic alumnus of either of these institutions, in his wildest moments, would never claim the title over the marvelous machine developed by Percy Haughton at Cambridge.

Those two ties can be dismissed with a few words. Against Penn State, Harvard did not throw her full strength. Mahan, Hardwick and Pennock were missing from the Crimson line-up at least part of the time. They were being husbanded against injury and for the following games that Harvard figured were more important. Against Brown, Harvard sent almost an entire team of second string men, thus giving the regulars a chance to witness Yale's clash with Princeton.

Without exception, sporting writers, for the first time in many, many moons, today are unanimous in wishing the eastern crown on the Crimson

Which leaves to the dopesters and post mortemers only the discussion of Harvard's merits compared to those of Illinois, heir apparent to the western football scepter.

WISCONSIN BEATEN IN FINAL BATTLE

Illinois, New Champions of Conference, Too Much for the Hard-frayed Badgers

ILLINOIS BACKFIELD A WONDER

Keeler and Buck Wisconsin Stars; Tubby Plays Last Game for Wisconsin; Bellows Plays Well

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 23.—Illinois is the undisputed holder of the western conference football title.

In the finest exhibition of the game seen at Madison in a decade or more, Coach Zuppke's Illinois team fought its way to a clear possession of the big nine championship by defeating Wisconsin, 24 to 9, at Camp Randall Saturday afternoon.

It was a question of Pogue, Clark, Schobinger and Macomber versus Buck and Keeler. The Badgers played the game of their lives, but the combined attack of Coach Zuppke's great backs was too much for the Wisconsin defense.

The Illinois eleven put up a great game, showing wonderful mastery of open football tactics. The ability of Pogue and Clark to shake off an entire host of tacklers won the game for the invaders. Throughout the contest Pogue and Clark alternated at carrying the ball. The Wisconsin defense, although unusually strong, proved no match for the open field work of the Illini.

Illinois Great on Defense

Coach Zuppke's men performed miracles with the ball on the offense. Just two minutes after the game had started, Clark picked off a punt that bounded and brought the rooters to their feet with a seventy yard run through the entire team. It was the prettiest open field work seen here in years. Pogue drew ovations from the Wisconsin audience later on in the game when he repeated Clark's tactics and scored two more touchdowns for the Illini. Aside from the times when Pogue and Clark got started on these trips, the Wisconsin line held well. Macomber was responsible for the other Illinois score when he sailed a perfect place kick across the bar in the first half.

Score in Third Period

Wisconsin's scores were made in the third quarter. The Badgers gave all they had and fairly outplayed the Illini for a short time. The enraged Wisconsin backs got started and in a short time the ball was on the invaders' eleven yard line. Forward passes to Kelley and Buck netted substantial gains, and Cummings went over for the sole Badger touchdown. When the Wisconsin machine tore down the field once more with an assortment of passes and line bucks the crowd went wild. With the score 17 to 7 and the prospects good for another touchdown, the rooters saw a possibility of an eleventh hour victory for the Badgers.

The Illinis line held on their three yard mark, however, and with the single exception of a safety scored soon after, the Illinois goal was safe for the rest of the game.

Buck's work for Wisconsin at tackle was wonderful. Buck seemed to be everywhere at once, and nailed his man for a big loss several times.

Punting Honors Equal

In the punting department honors were about evenly divided between Bellows and Macomber.

he showing made by the Badgers in scoring a touchdown on Illinois and holding the champions to three tallies was a surprise to the experts, who were looking for a walkaway for Illinois. Keeler played a great game for Wisconsin at tackle. It was the Barger captain's last game and he showed up strong.

The lineup:

Illinois—Graves, re; Petty, rt; Stewart, rg; Watson, c; Chapman, lg; Armstrong, Matson, lt; Squier, Derby, le; Clark, qb; Macomber, rhb; Wagner, Pogue, Senneff, lhb; Shobinger, Rue, fb.

Wisconsin—Stavrum, le; Bucks, lt; McMaster, lg; Kennedy, c; Mucks, rg; Keeler, rt; Rau, Kelley, re; Bellows, qb; Cummins, Taylor, lhb; Smith, rhb; Kreuz, Rigger, fb.

Touchdowns—Clark, Pogue (2), Cummins. Goals from touchdowns—Macomber (3), Bellows. Goal from field—Macomber. Safety—Kelley on Clark. Referee—Magedsohn, Michigan. Umpire—Gordon, Harvard. Head lineman—Knight, Dartmouth.

KOLE KNOCKS OUT BURNS IN SECOND

La Crosse Lad Annexes Feather Title of Northwest by Defeating the Canadian Champ

Jimmy Kole, former La Crosse featherweight, now of Minneapolis, scored a knockout over Tommy Burns, Canadian champion, in the second round of their scheduled fifteen frame fight Thursday night at Winnepeg. A series of right and left jabs by Kole soon finished the Canadian lad.

Kole's victory over Burns brands the La Crosse lad as probably the best featherweight in the northwest.

The proposed bout between Kole and Abe Attell at Hudson has fallen through, at least for the present. Promoter Mike Collins is unable to arrange terms with Attell.

DES JARDIEN NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Captain Paul Des Jardien of the University of Chicago eleven, who was believed to have been seriously hurt on Saturday, was much improved today and it was said he would be able to leave the hospital within two weeks.

Apple wood, used almost exclusively for saw handles, also furnishes the material for many so-called briarwood pipes and particularly for the large wooden type used in printing signs and posters.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and abundant.

MINNESOTA WINS COUNTRY RUN

Gophers Finish with Lowest Score; Badgers Land in Fifth Place Minus Their Old Stars

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 23.—Minnesota won the annual conference cross country run at Purdue university on Saturday. Watson of Minnesota was the first to cross the tape at the finish line, and his time, :26:21 for the five mile course, established a new Big Nine record and improved the old mark by twenty-three seconds.

The other scores were as follows: Ames, 81; Illinois, 98; Ohio State, 116; Wisconsin, 124; Northwestern, 128; Chicago, 132; Purdue, 142; Iowa, 211; Indiana, 263.

Watson of Minnesota was the first man to finish. His time was :26:25 for the five miles, and it established a new record. Last year's time was :26:24. Mason of Illinois finished second, Griffin of Minnesota, third, and Merrill of Wisconsin, fourth.

SCHAEFER IN AUTO SMASH

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—"Germany" Schaefer, comedian of the Washington American league team, and Charles T. O'Leary, a Pacific coast leaguer, escaped with slight injuries in an automobile accident in which Harry L. Troy and his wife, other members of the party, were hurt. Mrs. Troy was in a serious condition today.

TWO DIE IN STABLE FIRE

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Fire which destroyed Potts' feed stable at Montrose, Pa., today caused the death of James Potts, proprietor, and his helper, Marion Watson. Search is being made of the ruins for the bodies of two farmers who are believed to have slept in the stable.

The fact that you ought to know better doesn't help much if you don't.

IMPORTANT COG IN A SCORING MACHINE

Park.

Right Halfback Park is an important cog in the Coe college scoring machine which this year won the Iowa state conference championship. His open field running was an important feature of many of the games.

NEW PROGRAM AT LYRIC.

The Lyric management has contracted for the new "Alliance" program, which consists of one subject each week, of five reels or more, and will present the first subject, "Dan," with Lew Dockstadter, the famous minstrel man, in a play which has delighted big crowds on the legitimate stage. This is a comedy drama of civil war times and the scenes are laid in the sunny south. The first five reel production will be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at the Lyric theater.

HERE'S THRIFTY SOUL

PITTSBURG, Nov. 23.—That the police might not know that he could produce $5 to guarantee his appearance in police court today, Paul Broska, a laborer, threw away a bank book showing that he had $6,000 on deposit when arrested on a trifling charge.

It is a durned bright feller who kin be a genius around home when nobody ain't there but him and his wife.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder disease. Chas. A.
